There is a common misconception that "architectural conservation" and "heritage preservation" equate to overregulation practices of any historic place in India. This misconception often excludes new ideas, technology, and research in sustainability matters.

The SHILP MICE and Wellness Hub is envisioned as a beacon of Synergy, inviting fresh ideas that can foster a new perspective for the future based on the application of the past Indian Knowledge Systems in architecture transcends traditional boundaries, transforms in response to future challenges, and brings people together in the pursuit of sustainable solutions. By integrating the themes of Transcend, Transform, and Together into a cohesive design approach, the project will create a vibrant ecosystem that fosters innovation, collaboration, and environmental stewardship, setting a new paradigm for MICE and development in Southern India.
